Support for Students in Conflict

The UCSC Restorative Justice Program is here to support students in conflict. If you're experiencing roommate conflict; friendship, family or couples conflict; noise issues in the residence hall; Covid concerns; or any type of miscommunication or misunderstanding; we're here to support you.

We offer facilitation of constructive conversations, mediations to resolve conflicts, one-on-one communication skills coaching and anger management coaching. It's all private, supportive, effective and welcoming of all perspectives.

Many students have participated in this program and found it to be very beneficial and transformative.

All students are welcome to reach out directly to the Restorative Justice Program, and will receive a prompt response for addressing conflict and/or for communication skills coaching. vduval@ucsc.edu"
